This map is based on the best available data, which varies in quality across the project area. For more information on data quality and knowledge gaps, see the introduction to the Arctic Marine Synthesis and the description of the map.